

January 10, 2012

Dear Parents,

Catholic Schools Week is coming. This year the theme is "Faith, Academics and Service." During the school year we practice our faith and we try also to do something in the area of service. As to accomplish something special for "Academics", we want to participate in the NJ Writing Contest about Solar Power. The related topic would be the Solar System which we have started recently in the Science class.

So the Second Grade project for Catholic Schools Week will be the Solar System illustration. It could be done in the form of a poster or a shadow box. The best projects will be part of a class display during that week.

Please, help your child to do the best. The project is due January 24, 2012.

Thank you for your help and cooperation. God bless you.
